Section 6: Your attitude to risk and Farley & Thompson risk descriptions

There are inherent risks associated with investing. In certain circumstances both capital and income can fall. It is important that you give serious consideration to the level of risk you are willing to take and the level of loss that you could tolerate before it has an impact on your standard of living, especially if you are reliant on the income generated from your investments. Your adviser will help you assess and discuss your capacity for loss.

Which phrase best describes your attitude to risk?

Attitude to risk		Applicant 1 Please tick	Applicant 2 Please tick
Lower risk (risk averse)	I am/We are very cautious and completely risk averse and do not want to take any risk with my/our capital.
	I am/We are naturally cautious and do not like taking risks. I am/We are concerned about the security of my/our capital but understand the need to protect it from the effects of inflation.
Medium risk (risk tolerant)	I am/We are neither overly cautious nor a natural risk taker(s). I am/we are concerned about extreme volatility and seek a balance between safety and investment growth potential.
	I am/We are not a cautious investor(s) but neither do I/we take unnecessary risks. I am/We are seeking a balance between conservative and higher returns and accept the associated short term drops in value that may result from some investments.
Higher risk (risk taker)	I am/We are comfortable with risk to maximise my/our potential for returns. I am/We are seeking investment growth and I am/we are prepared to accept that some losses may result from investing in more speculative investments.
	I am/We are comfortable with significant risk to maximise my/our potential for returns. I am/We are seeking investment growth and I am/we are prepared to accept complete losses that may result from investing in the most speculative investments.

Alternatively, this is what risk means to me/us in my/our own words:

Attitude to risk	Farley & Thompson description and investment types	Applicant 1 Please tick	Applicant 2 Please tick
Very Low risk	Investments include cash accounts, NS&I, money market funds and short-dated UK sovereign debt (Gilts).	Inc GILTS	Inc GILTS
Low / Medium risk	Investments in this category comprise sovereign debt (gilts) and investment grade corporate bonds, sterling and strategic bond funds and gilt funds. To a lesser extent more volatile assets such as multi asset or fund of funds, broadly-based UK and global equity collectives in limited proportions but no direct equity shareholdings. These investments are likely to produce a predictable level of income but will not offer much prospect for capital growth and it is possible to lose some of what you invest for the prospect of better growth.	Inc COLLS	Inc COLLS
Medium risk	Investments in this category will include those in the Low/Medium risk group but proportionately will have a higher content of more volatile equity-based assets but are unlikely to include direct equity shareholdings. Collective investments in the Medium risk category may also include those with a broad thematic objective. These investments combined have the potential for both income generation and capital growth, are likely to fluctuate in value, and it is possible to lose some of what you invest for the prospect of better growth.	Inc/Bal COLLS	Inc/Bal COLLS
Upper Medium risk	Investments in this category may include those in the Low/Medium and Medium risk groups but are likely to have a greater focus on more volatile equity-based assets, particularly direct equity shareholdings in FTSE100 and 250 companies. Collective investments may include those with more specialised or narrow-ranging remits. These investments combined have the potential for generating capital growth with some income, will fluctuate in value, and there is a real risk of loss of capital but this is balanced with the prospect of greater growth.	Bal or Gro	Bal or Gro
Medium / High risk	Investments in this category may include all those in the Low/Medium, Medium and Upper Medium risk groups with an emphasis on a broader spectrum of investments. There is likely to be a significant focus on the most volatile assets, including FTSE100 and 250 direct equity holdings and to a more limited extent, individual smaller company or Alternative Investment Market (AIM) shares. Collective investments may also include less liquid and narrowly-based thematic or single country funds. These investments combined have the potential for capital growth with limited prospects for income, could be subject to extreme volatility, and there is a real risk of loss of capital but this is balanced with the prospect of greater growth.	Bal or Gro	Bal or Gro
High risk	Investments include warrants, derivatives, futures and options, leveraged and synthetic ETFs, as well as EIS, Venture Capital Trusts, emerging market and frontier single country funds. High risk will also include any requirement to invest exclusively in the equity of smaller capitalised companies, AIM shares or unquoted securities. These investments could be subject to extreme volatility and there is a real risk of complete loss of capital on the most speculative investments.	Gro	Gro

Section 7: Your knowledge and experience

How would you best describe your level of investment knowledge and experience?

	Farley & Thompson definition	Applicant 1 Please tick	Applicant 2 Please tick
Novice investor(s).	Your investments and savings to date have been limited to a narrow range of assets e.g. cash deposits and NS&I. You have a basic knowledge of financial products and instruments and a basic understanding of the relationship between risk and returns but no previous direct experience or knowledge of the stockmarket or of the main asset types such as equities, bonds and collective investment schemes.
Inexperienced investor(s).	You may have an existing portfolio but have little personal involvement or interest. Your knowledge and experience of investments such as equities, bonds and collective investment schemes is basic but you do have an understanding of the relationship between risk and returns.
Moderately experienced investor(s).	You have previously invested in various asset types and you have a broad understanding of the main asset classes such as equities, bonds and collective investment schemes and a good understanding of the relationship between risk and returns.
Experienced investor(s).	You are experienced at looking after your own or another's investments and have a good level of investment knowledge. You may have previously worked in the financial sector. You understand the relationship between risk and returns and the general risk profiles of the various asset classes and financial products.
